

The JFK Lie

The Mechanic's Car

Hello

You as a young person may ask the
following question:

Why should I care?

Why should I care about a President who was shot more than 50 years
ago?

I'm going to tell you
why.

Because the people
in power didn't care.

They didn't care because they thought that this was their country.

In their minds, only
they had the right to
nullify an election.

The schools they attended served as a false security blanket for
their elitist demeanor.

Here are three who served on the Warren Commission.

Arlen Specter University of Pennsylvania, Yale Law

Allen Dulles Princeton, George Washington Law

Gerald Ford University of Michigan, Yale Law

What? You mean these guys were lawyers?
Aren't lawyers trained to
respect the law?

Of course.

They were trained
well.

Only they have the
right to know the truth.

Only they have the
right to violate the constitution.

Schmucks like you are too stupid to
comprehend the truth.

That's what they took away from law school.

Like the mechanic who
has the worst car in town,
they have the least respect
for the constitution.

It's your fault, really.

You slacked off.

After overthrowing the Pharaohs, the Romans, the Kings, the Queens, and an assortment of blowhard dictators, you thought it would be okay to take a rest, to focus on the kids and some chores around the house.

You needed a break.

And all you asked for
was a little peace and
quiet.

But the people in charge just couldn't
do it, could they?

Nope, they just couldn't wait for an election.

They figured: Well, we put Kennedy in power by rigging
those votes in West Virginia.
We have the moral authority to kill him.

That sounds pretty
rational, except for
one little detail.

What about our rigged votes? Maybe we had a caper going on too.

Maybe Corporate
America's rigged votes
had no real effect at all.

Don't our rigged votes
count too?

Why, yes, I do
believe they do.

And since they kindly
neglected to include us
in their little caper, its
time for a reminder.

Of course, they're dead, so we'll have to settle for Big Mike, the current sergeant at arms for Corporate America.

So here goes.

Drumroll.

This is our country,
Big Mike.

It belongs to us.

We built it, lock, stock
and barrel.

Including the government.

That's right, Big Mike.

The jets you fly on, the caviar you eat, the champagne you drink at those elaborate cocktail parties you attend is all paid for by us.

We own it.

All of it.

Thank you.

Warning to Big Mike: God sees everything you do including those immoral labs you built underground, you know, the ones designed to build biological weapons. Oh yeah, God caught that one right off. You see, Mike, God is like Uncle Buck; he'll drink a beer on the couch while you mess with people's lives; and then soon enough, he'll get around to you.

Thank you.
